16 February 2025

6th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Year C

CALLED TO CHOOSE WHAT LEADS TO LIFE

Today's Liturgy of the Word invites us to reflect on two fundamental choices: blessing or curse, life or death. We choose the best when we put our trust in the Lord and live according to this choice. Such is the message of the Beatitudes. The Lord should be our only Treasure, our Friend, our Guide, and our final Reward.

In this Eucharist, we will pray in a special manner for the grace to always stay close to the Lord Jesus and live by the light of his Beatitudes. We will also pray for those who are blinded by their passions and make choices that are destructive of their dignity and endanger their eternal salvation. May all of us see the light and live according to the teaching and example of Jesus.

LITURGY OF THE WORD

1st Reading Jer 17:5-8

Today the prophet Jeremiah reminds us of two opposite choices in life: to put one's trust in material things and human beings, while turning away from the Lord, or to humbly place our trust and hope in Him. The deadly outcome of the first choice should not leave us uncertain about what we should do.

R –A reading from the Book of the Prophet Jeremiah

Thus says the Lord: Cursed is the man who trusts in human beings, who seeks his strength in flesh, whose heart turns away from the Lord. He is like a barren bush in the desert that enjoys no change of season, but stands in a lava waste, a salt and empty earth.

Blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose hope is the Lord. He is like a tree planted beside the waters that stretches out its roots to the stream. It fears not the heat when it comes, its leaves stay green. In the year of drought it shows no distress, but still bears fruit.

The Word of the Lord!
All–Thanks be to God!

Responsorial Psalm Ps 1

R –Blessed are they who hope in the Lord!

R. M. Velez

Blessed are they who hope in the Lord!

* Blessed is the man who follows not the counsel of the wicked, nor walks in the way of sinners, nor sits in the company of the insolent, but delights in the law of the Lord and meditates on his law day and night. R.

* He is like a tree planted near running water, that yields its fruit in due season, and whose leaves never fade. Whatever he does, prospers. R.

* Not so the wicked, not so! They are like chaff which the wind drives away. For the Lord watches over the way of the just, but the way of the wicked vanishes. R.

2nd Reading 1 Cor 15:12.16-20

After having restated the reality of Christ's resurrection, the apostle Paul points out that to deny the resurrection of all the dead amounts to a denial of the resurrection of Christ himself – something that would undermine the entire Christian faith.

R –A reading from the First Letter of Paul to the Corinthians

Brothers and sisters:

If Christ is preached as raised from the dead, how can some among you say there is no resurrection of the dead? If the dead are not raised, neither has Christ been raised.

And if Christ has not been raised, your faith is vain; you are still in your sins. Then those who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished. If for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are the most pitiable people of all.

But now Christ has been raised from the dead, the first-fruits of those who have fallen asleep.

The Word of the Lord!
All–Thanks be to God!

Gospel Acclamation Lk 6:23

All–Alleluia! Alleluia!
Rejoice and be glad; your reward will be great in heaven.
Alleluia! Alleluia!

Gospel Lk 6:17.20-26

Jesus is still at the beginning of his apostolic ministry and already finds himself surrounded by immense crowds. He has words of hope for all those who are poor, suffering or ill-treated. But he has also serious warnings against those who focus on earthly pleasures instead of pursuing higher values. These contrasting life situations and aspirations are an echo of the message of the prophet Jeremiah and of the Responsorial Psalm.

P–The Lord be with you!

All–And with your spirit!

P –A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

All–Glory to you, O Lord!

Jesus came down with the Twelve and stood on a stretch of level ground with a great crowd of his disciples and a large number of the people from all Judea and Jerusalem and the coastal region of Tyre and Sidon.

And raising his eyes toward his disciples he said:

“Blessed are you who are poor, for the kingdom of God is yours.

Blessed are you who are now hungry, for you will be satisfied.

Blessed are you who are now weeping, for you will laugh.

Blessed are you when people hate you, and when they exclude and insult you, and denounce your name as evil on account of the Son of Man. Rejoice and leap for joy on that day! Behold, your reward will be great in heaven. For their ancestors treated the prophets in the same way.

But woe to you who are rich, for you have received your consolation.

Woe to you who are filled now, for you will be hungry.

Woe to you who laugh now, for you will grieve and weep.

Woe to you when all speak well of you, for their ancestors treated the false prophets in this way.”

The Gospel of the Lord!
All–Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ!

Homily

Profession of Faith

(Nicene-Constantinopolitan Creed)

All–I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible.

I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven, ((bow)) and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man. For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end.

I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets.

I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen!

And so, with the company of Angels and Saints, we sing the hymn of your praise, as without end we acclaim:

Choosing Wisely & Rightly!

Kalakbay at Katoto

One of Maslow's so-called "self-actualizing characteristics" has to do with a sense of interior stability that makes a person stand his ground, and resist the sway of external influences.

Such a person, to use the famous Biblical phrase, is one comparable to a "house built, not on sand, but on rock." Without in any way being rigidly fanatic, the mature, flexible person knows his or her boundaries, or limits.

Classical Christian philosophy and theology refer to this trait as the virtue of prudence. The prudent man or woman knows when to stand one's ground and when to allow oneself to be sort of carried away by the prevailing culture, up to a certain extent. The prudent person lives a life marked by a delicate, though difficult, act of balancing. Such a sense of balance is the essence of what it means to live a life of paradox.

The Scriptures describe this capacity for paradoxical living, this ability to combine apparently contradictory elements and, the sagacity to put together two polar realities and integrate them in one's life, as WISDOM.

Today's readings refer to the blessedness attached to this ability to transcend seemingly extreme situations placed alongside one another: trust in human beings versus trust in the Lord; counsel from sinners versus delight in the law of the Lord; the way of the just, versus the way of the wicked; being poor versus being rich; being hungry versus being satisfied; being hated by society versus being rewarded greatly in heaven ...

The culture of the present world keeps a steady onslaught on the value-systems of everyone, including those who claim to follow Christ. Even the Church is not spared this seeping political culture marked by the oppositional spirit of "conflictuality." A battle royale is raging between liberals and conservatives, and the soft liberals in between.

The first reading puts before us an important choice: to trust in human beings or to trust in the Lord. His choice is clear: the latter choice is life-giving ... "He is like a tree planted beside the waters." The response further confirms the idea: the man who delights in the law of the Lord is "like a tree planted near running water, that yields its fruit in due season, and whose leaves never fade." All this seems to support the idea that wisdom, that ability to transcend the seemingly irreconcilable conflicts we face in the world, that sense of stability and balance can only come from an intimate union with a living God.

The Gospel beatitudes give us the ultimate in this search for a sense of balance and wisdom. It tells us to take a second look at what the world considers as a list of woes: poverty, sorrow, hunger, hatred and rejection from others.

To appreciate the Beatitudes, we literally need to
